Hide the desktop shortcuts and taskbar Enable the dark red theme using Nite colors Lacks richer options and configuration settings NiteView Full Crack is a software application that can hide desktop elements to help you focus on writing or reading, for example. It comes packed with just a few options that can be enabled and disabled with one click. Hide the desktop shortcuts and taskbar Following a fast setup operation that shouldn't give you any trouble, you're welcomed by a tiny window that shows three checkboxes for hiding the desktop (program shortcuts) and taskbar, as well as for showing Nite colors. Enable the dark red theme using Nite colors When it comes to the Nite colors, the tool turns its bar dark red. However, we've noticed that other colors schemes from outside the utility adopt this dark red too, such as the address bar in web browsers, the navigation pane in Windows Explorer, background in Notepad, as well as the tab bar in Notepad++. Next, you can either exit the utility (the changes are preserved) or minimize it to the taskbar to carry on with your typical desktop activity. Unfortunately, the application doesn't offer other color scheme options. Lacks richer options and configuration settings It would've been useful if the developer implemented hotkey support to be able to quickly show or hide the desktop shortcuts and taskbar, as well as to toggle the dark red color scheme by just pressing some keyboard keys. The program was originally designed for Windows. Although we haven't come across any stability issues with the newest Windows model and we didn't have to resort to the compatibility troubleshooter, sadly, NiteView has little value to bring. Conclusion There are a bunch of other, more versatile applications out there that can help users make desktop tweaks. Considering that the desktop shortcuts and taskbar can be easily hidden using the operating system's built-in options, we fail to see its worth. Is this a NiteView or an Nlite program?- Jonathan, 11.11.2010 Works good but has one slight bug that needs to be fixed. If you're on a laptop and you start niteview, on the main NiteView window, you hit the close button, and the window closes. But if you have a laptop touchpad, the close button pops up and you have to click on it to close the window (which closes the NiteView program). Much better than the program BSODing or having the close button in the middle of the desktop. Thanks. - Ben, 11.11.2010 It's annoying at times that whenever I close an open window that I haven't worked on for a bit (2-5 minutes) the cursor flickers to the top left corner of the desktop. I have to click on it to get the window back or the keyboard. Fix that. Also I use it during writing and it would be nice to have an option to not have the window jump to the top left corner of my desktop when I close it and have it appear normal. - Mathieu, 11.11.2010 I'm just a Nlite user, but if this is as good as it gets for a free program, I don't mind. The fact that you can decide if you want the program minimized to the taskbar, the fact that it doesn't slow down my computer, the fact that it doesn't 6a5afdab4c
