Q: SQL query to find most connected people - PostgreSQL I have a simple SQL table with a user id and an event. I want to find all people who are connected to other users of the same event. One user can be connected only to one or more users of the same event. For example: event | user 1 1 1 2 1 3 1 4 2 5 2 6 2 7 2 8 If event is 1 I should see: 1 3 4 If event is 2 I should see: 2 7 8 How can I get this in one SQL query? I tried some queries using DISTINCT but no luck with that. I have tables with hundreds of thousands of rows in those tables. A: This might work: `SELECT user, group_concat(event) FROM (SELECT user, event, event=FROM_UNIXTIME(time) FROM table t WHERE t.event IN (1,2) AND t.user IN (SELECT DISTINCT user FROM table t1) GROUP BY user, event) t1 GROUP BY user;` Papuan Beauty The Papuan Beauty is a breed of domestic chicken developed at the Royal (Dick) School of Veterinary Studies in Guelph, Ontario, Canada, and the National Chicken Improvement Centre in England. The first work on this breed was published in 1980. The breed was created by crossing five local domestic breeds that were primarily and distantly, derived from the Rhode Island Red, Silkie, Delmarva and Cayuga. It is considered to be the smallest modern breed of chicken in the world. It is a dual-purpose chicken which grows a lot faster than meat birds. Its parent breeds have a tendency to pass on the disease Pile Wasting. History A chicken chosen as the parent of the new breed was a cross with a Delmarva, and a cross with a Cayuga resulted in the parent breed being called the "Delmarva Racket" and "Cayuga Perch". The stock at the time had a comb nearly as

The Heterogeneity of Human Primary Myelofibrosis: Increasing Susceptibility to Myeloproliferation with Microenvironmental Worsening. A high-quality whole-genome and single-nucleotide polymorphism (SNP) array were used to determine the mutational landscape of primary myelofibrosis (PMF) in 63 patients. This revealed a core mutation frequency of 30% and a core disease burden of 4% (range, 0.2%-22%). The most common splice mutations included ASXL1 (10.1%), SRSF2 (9.5%), and U2AF1 (6.3%). Increasing numbers of mutations correlated with increased myeloid blast counts in bone marrow ($R = 0.56$, $P = .003$). Patient outcome was significantly worse in patients with a large mutation burden ($P = .009$). Survival was shortest for patients with 4 or more mutated genes or for patients with splice mutations plus mutations in ASXL1, SRSF2, and U2AF1. Cell-free DNA (cfDNA) was detectable in 90% of patients and demonstrated a clonal burden of 2% in the peripheral blood. Patients with high myeloid blast counts ($\geq 4\%$) had a high fraction of cell-free ETV6-RUNX1 in cfDNA. The interaction between mutations in ASXL1 and SRSF2 was significantly associated with the fraction of ETV6-RUNX1 in cfDNA. These data demonstrate the applicability of SNP arrays for identifying patients with PMF with distinct molecular profiles that are associated with disease severity. Q: Solving a Linear Matrix Equation using LU decomposition I have just started using the LU decomposition for solving linear matrix equations. I am currently working on a simple example and have an error in my code for some reason. The problem is to solve $AX=B$ where A is a 3×3 matrix and B is a 3×1 column vector. I get the following matrix as a solution: $A = \begin{bmatrix} 1 & 0 & 0 \\ 3 & -1 & 2 \\ -2 & 0 & 4 \end{bmatrix}$ and $B = \begin{bmatrix} 5 \\ 3 \\ 0 \end{bmatrix}$
