Hey guys, Just wanted to share my experience with Coinbase. It's been great until yesterday, when I tried to buy Ether from Coinbase.com. As you can guess, Coinbase won't show ETH/BTC pair (which I've bought before) and only shows USD/BTC pair, which means I can't buy bitcoin from Coinbase using my ETH (ETHUSD in my Coinbase portfolio), and vice versa. I've reported this problem to Coinbase's support and we figured out that the problem is with Coinbase, not with ETH. So if you have same problem, you can use my workaround in case you still want to sell your Bitcoin (and have that money in your PayPal account). As long as you set US dollars as currency, you will be able to sell Bitcoin. For Ethereum the workaround can be different (I'll update my steps once I find out).S-heterocyclic carbene-catalyzed, one-pot access to polyfunctionalized, highly substituted amines and heterocyclic compounds. A general and convenient synthetic approach to amines and heterocyclic compounds has been developed, which combines the use of both aminomethylene phosphorane 3, and an in situ generated S-heterocyclic carbene (S-HC) catalyst. These polyfunctionalized molecules can be efficiently obtained in one pot, in both enantiomerically pure and racemic form. On the basis of preliminary experimental data, endometrial cancer may represent a mosaic disease with distinct cellular phenotypes. The tumor may arise from a stem cell that terminates progenitor differentiation or continues differentiation in a stem cell-like fashion. We propose a series of experiments to test this hypothesis in a murine model and in human cancer tissue. Our goal is to determine the biological characteristics of putative stem cells, the phenotype of endometrial cancer cells, and the influence of their interaction on the development of endometrial cancer. Specifically, we propose that 1. endometrial stem cells give rise to progenitors which undergo further differentiation, or 2. cancer stem cells are arrested at a progenitor stage and are responsible for stem cell renewal. In Aim 1 we will assess the plasticity of endometrial stem cells by creation of chimeric tissue in which a pure population of stem cells will be reassociated with early endometrial progenitor cells

To sign up or not to sign up to the European Society of Hypertension Working Party on Lipid treatment. The working party on lipid treatment, cochaired by Professors Alain Renaud (Bruxelles, Belgium), Eduardo Nieves (Madrid, Spain), and Francesco Sassi (Rome, Italy), reported on the key issues of the role of lipid lowering as primary therapy in clinical practice. The deliberations were based on presentations and group discussions during the 13th European Society of Hypertension (ESH) World Congress, held in Madrid, Spain from 28-30 May 2002. This report considers the following issues: 1) Which is the ideal lipid profile in patients with coronary heart disease (CHD), and what additional information is now needed to determine the best long-term management strategy? 2) Should lipid lowering be initiated at low levels of low-density lipoprotein cholesterol (LDL-C) or whether aggressive LDL-C lowering is the optimal therapy in patients with CHD and no severe risk factors? 3) What is the LDL-C target in patients with CHD who have one or more cardiovascular risk factors besides hypercholesterolaemia? Is there a role for a particularly aggressive lipid-lowering strategy in these patients? 4) What is the safety and efficacy of fibrates in combination with statins? What are the most effective treatments to reduce triglyceride levels? 5) Is there a role for these treatments in combination, and what is the optimal combination of treatments for the various patient groups? 6) What additional issues related to the use of statins in combination and how can we identify which patients are likely to benefit from these combinations of treatments? final SalesSalesLineItemLine item = sales.addSalesSalesLineItemLine(invoice, billingItem, sessionMock.getCustomer(), invId); final BPartner client = invoice.getBPartner(); final BPartner buyer = invoice.getBuyer(); final CartProductPriceType price = new CartProductPriceType(null, new BigDecimal(10)); final AssignedProductStockStatus status = new AssignedProductStockStatus(null, new BigDecimal(1), new BigDecimal(10)); final Quantity qty1 = new Quantity(0, new BigDecimal(5));
