By: CORY CARROLL Posted: February 19, 2011 PRESS RELEASE Given a week or two to check things out, Colgate basketball seniors Jacob Broyles and Will Carroll had a pretty good idea what they wanted in a Division III school. And the search didn't take long at all. They narrowed the field to Carroll and Princeton as a 1 and 3 in the final rankings. Still, they did their due diligence. Carroll made a trip to see Princeton, and then spent a week researching their pitch at his mom's house. "I was pretty positive I was going to Princeton," Broyles said. "I went to see the campus and found out the school and I are pretty similar. I wanted to be on the East Coast, where you have more snow, and play basketball in front of a larger, more dedicated fan base. "There were a few schools that were stronger, but everything," Broyles said. "There was nothing that was a better fit." Carroll, a 5-foot-9 wing, was similarly sold. "I'm a very hard worker and I love the Princeton," he said. "I like the fans, the students, the academics, the basketball atmosphere, and I really like New Jersey." The Redskins have made the NAC regular season tournament twice in the past three years, going 1-1 each time. Coach Brian Blume was hoping that might finally happen. "We've never really been on the bubble," he said. "We've always been there or a game or two away, or a game at the end where we could have made a statement." This year, the Redskins have a chance to play for
