Features: HYPERMOTION TECHNOLOGY (HMT) Using high-intensity real-world gameplay, FIFA's HYPERMOTION TECHNOLOGY technology is the industry's most complete, accurate and precise model of a real-life football match. 22 FIFA players were put through an extremely intense match at 3 p.m. on a Wednesday. The match was captured by OptiTrack cameras that recorded the players' motion onscreen during gameplay using a motion-capture system. The High-Intensity Sport (HIS) marker set was also used to clearly mark the on-field behavior and actions. The data captured was then processed and used to create the unique movement of each player throughout the pitch, showing the actual distance, speed, acceleration, direction, deceleration, and more – both in movements and in tackling. PLACEHOLDERS The HyperMotion Technology (HMT) introduces new, improved and enhanced placeholders for players that are derived from the real-world gameplay data captured by OptiTrack. These are the placeholders used to represent players on the pitch for gameplay and animation purposes. The placeholders are named after the 22 players that were captured during the 3 p.m. match. On this basis, placeholders of Falcao, Ronaldo, Van Persie and Messi are all named after their respective players. 18PLAYERS AND 9 TEAMS FIFA will include 18 players to be used in all game modes. 18PLAYERS 18 FANTASY SPORT The complete set of 18 players are available for both new challenges and the existing ones. All 18 players will also be available in challenges when transferring for players who have been retroactively activated in the squad. 9 TEAMS In addition, there are nine new clubs included: Shanghai Shenxin, Beijing Guoan, Guangzhou Evergrande, Xiangxue Sun He, Shandong Luneng, Dalian Yifang, Shanghai SIPG, Guangzhou R&F, and Shijiazhuang Ever Bright. Guangzhou Evergrande appear for the first time in FIFA 19 and will be available through the Transfer Market. Once in-game, players can play as the Guangzhou Evergrande Football Club. TEAM ADJUSTMENTS The players' attributes, such as speed, acceleration, and
