Look, I'm sure I can be of great help to you, but please avoid talking to me in the forums, as it's considered spamming and you will be reported and lose your rating. I can help you download a video from YouTube and convert it to MOV (and from MOV to MP4) but you will need to know the video URL and which YouTube channel it is on, and what file extension you want for the MOV (MP4 is fine). I will also need to know if it's a commercial or public YouTube video. I can't really offer any of the other things you want. A: You can use 1 of the many YouTube downloader software available on the web (like cclive, youtube-dl, Web Capture, etc). The one I would recommend is cclive: cclive is an open source cross-platform downloader for YouTube videos. it supports download from multiple video hosts (YouTube, Dailymotion, Vevo, etc) in one single process. it allows you to pause and resume the download process (to interrupt and start a download at a later time) it supports multiple formats for output (MP4, M4V, MOV, MPEG, AVI).
