3.9. Application: Uneven Exposure Light balance is an important part of color, and a key part of the average image is how the light changes in the image. Human vision is capable of seeing a very wide range of light levels, but a color balance is important to help people see and interpret images and other visual objects as clearly and clearly as possible. With a range of light levels, this is a really important task. The light source in Figure 3-23 is very light. We can easily make the same image look very different just by changing the light balance. Figure 3-23: The light source in this image needs to be made a little darker. We will open the image by double-clicking it in the Layers panel on the left. 1. Click the Layer icon at the bottom of the Layers panel to activate the layer. 2. A layer mask is added. 3. What's New In?

1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a method for fabricating a semiconductor device having a semiconductor substrate on which a gate insulation layer is interposed between a gate electrode and a source/drain region, the gate insulation layer being divided into an insulation portion and a gate spacer layer, the insulation portion enclosing the edge of the gate electrode, the gate spacer layer enclosing side and end portions of the gate electrode. 2. Description of the Background Art The following description sets forth the inventor's knowledge of related art and problems therein and should not be construed as an admission of knowledge in the prior art. In Japanese Patent Laid-Open Publication No. 9-205065, as a method for manufacturing a semiconductor device, the fabrication process is disclosed. According to the method, a gate insulation layer is formed and deposited on a semiconductor substrate. After that, a polycrystalline silicon layer is deposited on the gate insulation layer. A source/drain region and a gate electrode are formed by patterning the semiconductor substrate and the polycrystalline silicon layer by photolithography and dry etching. Next, the gate electrode, the semiconductor substrate and the gate insulation layer are dry-etched by using the gate electrode and the gate spacer layer as etch masks to form a groove and a gate spacer layer by the gate electrode. Next, a refractory metal layer is deposited on the semiconductor substrate and patterned to form a barrier metal layer by which the side and end portions of the gate electrode are covered. Next, the insulation layer is deposited on the barrier metal layer and the insulative layer, the barrier metal layer and the insulative layer are dry etched to complete the insulation portion. Next, the semiconductor substrate is dry etched to complete a semiconductor device having a gate insulation layer divided into the insulation portion and the gate spacer layer. In this manner, the insulation portion at the side and end portions of the gate electrode is separated from the semiconductor substrate and is insulated with the barrier metal layer, so that characteristics of the semiconductor substrate can be prevented from being adversely affected. Next, Japanese Patent Laid-Open Publication No. 2000-263266 discloses a method for fabricating a semiconductor device. In this method, a buffer insulator layer is formed, and a polycrystalline silicon layer having a bottom surface and a back surface is formed on the buffer insulator layer. A gate electrode
